

Report Note

1. Data Source: EDW database, Report SMS009
Data Extract Date: 22 June 2023

This report provides the number of students enrolled in at least one course by faculty and school in the 2023 academic year.

2. Code: This is the faculty or school that is responsible for offering the course in which students are registered.

3. Faculty/school: This is the faculty and school that the courses are registered. Faculty numbers may include a small number of students associated with research institutes at postgraduate levels.

4. Student Headcount: This refers to the total number of unique enrolled students with one of the following registration statuses: DA, DN, DS, RE, RS, RW, ED, or AC.

5. Academic Year: This data has been provided for the 2023 academic year. The academic year encompasses the period starting from the beginning of Trimester One and ending at the conclusion of Trimester Three. As the 2023 Academic Year is still in progress, these numbers will be subject to change.

Please note the following additional information when analysing the data provided:

- The Faculty of Graduate Research administers and has oversight of all doctoral programmes and Master's by thesis students. However, the course enrolment is registered with the faculty and school providing academic supervision.
- The Language learning Centre is a unit that is part of the School of Languages and Cultures and does not have its own formal course offerings.
- As students may enrol in courses across more than one school within a faculty, or more than one faculty across the university, headcounts will exceed faculty and university totals.
