Subject: For information: Standard response to questions about our name

Kia ora koutou

FYI, we've been receiving lots of queries about our name and use of te reo.

Karen's approved the following standard response. It follows our plain language approach of first person and is suitable for written responses and the contact centre scripts. The response has been provided to Min Services, Media and Out of scope for the contact centre.

We're taking the appropriate steps to give effect to the policy of the new Government that public service organisations should communicate primarily in English and have their names primarily in English, apart from those related specifically to Māori.

Consistent with Government expectations, changes to our name and logo are being rolled out over time to minimise unnecessary cost and wastage.

At the people leader call with Nicole, people leaders were advised that out of scope was the contact if they had any questions about supporting the new Government. Could you please check in with Out of scope if you get any queries about new Government commitments? It'll help ensure you have the most up to date information, including access to any standard responses that are prepared. It'll also help identify where a response/guidance is needed. That would be really helpful. Thank you.

Subject: RE: Assistance needed: OIA request - cost of name change

Hi out of

Happy to have a meeting about this to discuss it by my initial thoughts are as follows:

Summary of s 9(2)(a) OIA:

- Approximate costs to implement the change.

At this stage, NZTA has not received any cost estimates to implement the change. Any design work to change the logo will be undertaken in house as part of business as usual along with a number of other changes, for example updating letterhead, email signatures and templates. At this stage our approach to other changes to things like signage and stationery is to use a new logo for anything new or for anything that needs replacing as these are costs that would be incurred regardless of the change. For example, we will use up old stationery first and replace the logo when ordering new stationery.

This was the same approach that was taken when we last changed our logo and the only cost incurred for that change related to one sign that was changed at our Head Office and some legal costs for trademarking the new logo.

With regards to s 9(2)(a) request, because of the approach we are going to take we don't have the costs and we are not anticipating getting any cost estimates, specifically:

- The design & rebranding of all offices - all design work will be undertaken in-house and we are not anticipating rebranding our offices at this stage. If signage is updated or we move to new premises the newest logo will be used at that time

Vehicles - all design work will be undertaken in-house and we are not anticipating rebranding our vehicles at this stage. Any new vehicles entering our fleet will be branded with the newest logo at that time

- The design & printing of forms, leaflets, & letterhead – all design work will be undertaken in-house. Old stock will be used up first and when reprinting is required they will be printed with the newest logo at that time
- Provide the individual cost per item, including any items that I have not listed specifically, but that carry the Waka Kotahi brand & that will need to change as part of the department rebrand – because of the approach we are taking we cannot provide this information because it doesn't exist and the time and cost to identify every item and get costs for it is not required.
- Please also provide the full cost of not having to redesign & rebrand each item (including items I haven't listed, but that carry the Waka Kotahi brand) – as above.

Kind regards

Hi team

Can we please be consistent with the statement that the Minister has provided media on this topic in relation to the instruction – it is below thanks.

Transport Minister Simeon Brown has moved swiftly to instruct Waka Kotahi staff to begin using their agency's English name first in communications.

A spokesperson for Brown told 1News in a statement on Monday night: "In a meeting with officials, Transport Minister Simeon Brown advised NZTA of the coalition agreement regarding the use of Māori names and to ensure they had a plan to give effect to it."

As part of its coalition agreement with New Zealand First, the new government had agreed to ensure all public service departments had their primary name in English, except for those specifically related to Māori.

According to the OIA response below, Waka Kotahi is the Te Reo Māori name for NZ Transport Agency that was first introduced in 2008, and included on the trade mark registered on 1 August 2008.

<https://www.nzta.govt.nz/assets/About-us/docs/oia2-2020/oia-6760-response.pdf>

As part of giving more prominence to Waka Kotahi in 2019/20, we spent $5,800 on legal costs for trademarking a new Waka Kotahi/NZ Transport Agency logo with IPONZ, through Dentons. It's referenced in the published OIA response below.

<https://www.nzta.govt.nz/assets/About-us/docs/oia2-2023/oia-13189-response-letter.pdf>

We've provided several response to media over the past couple weeks outlining the info above, summarised by the statement below:

For clarity, the name Waka Kotahi as the te reo translation of NZ Transport Agency was trademarked in 2008, while the full name 'Waka Kotahi NZ Transport Agency' and the associated logo were trademarked in 2019.

Hi out of scope

My name is s 9(2)(a)

I'm writing a story about Ngāi Te Rangi Settlements Trust who filed a complaint today to the Waitangi Tribunal against the new coalition government for breaches of Te Tiriti o Waitangi.

The complaint said actions undertaken and policies announced by the coalition government "attack and undermine the mana of Ngāi Te Rangi and of Te Ao Māori". This included ensuring public service departments had their primary name in English, such as the recent name change to Waka Kotahi.

Ngāi Te Rangi s 9(2)(a) said he planned to contact the Waka Kotahi chief executive to ask "how he got to go around legislation to change the name of his department".

"The fact that we have to fight for our reo in 2023 is abominable ... My parents fought for that and it's enshrined in legislation."

He said this included changing the names of government departments "without proper due process".

I'd like to offer the CEO of Waka Kotahi to respond to this. Our deadline is 4pm today, please.

The organisation has not changed its name. Waka Kotahi is the te reo Māori name for the NZ Transport Agency. It was gifted to the organisation at the time of formation and included with a trademark registered on 1 August 2008, the day on which the organisation was established from the merger of the former Transit NZ and Land Transport NZ. The legal name of the organisation under the Land Transport Management Act has always been 'New Zealand Transport Agency'.

In 2019/20, steps were taken to give the te reo Māori name of the organisation (Waka Kotahi) more prominence, along with the development of our Māori Strategy, Te Ara Kotahi. Since this time, we have continued to use both names Waka Kotahi and New Zealand Transport Agency(NZTA).

With the change of Government we're now taking the appropriate steps to give effect to the policy of the new Government that public service organisations should have their primary name in English.

Confirming this has been removed.

Final version:

The organisation has not changed its name. Waka Kotahi is the te reo Māori name for the NZ Transport Agency. It was gifted to the organisation at the time of formation and included with a trademark registered on 1 August 2008, the day on which the organisation was established from the merger of the former Transit NZ and Land Transport NZ. The legal name of the organisation under the Land Transport Management Act has always been 'New Zealand Transport Agency'.

In 2019/20, steps were taken to give the te reo Māori name of the organisation (Waka Kotahi) more prominence, along with the development of our Māori Strategy, Te Ara Kotahi. Since this time, we have continued to use both names Waka Kotahi and New Zealand Transport Agency(NZTA).

*With the change of Government we're now taking the appropriate steps to give effect to the policy of the new Government that public service organisations should have their primary name in English. Waka Kotahi will remain as part of our name and brand and will be used where this name is preferred by parties interacting with the agency.

3. We'll get more on the branding/name online as soon as we get written direction. While we've had the oral direction to go English first with our name – we need the written direction to provide more detail around what this will mean in practice for us. It will be an iterative process of change regardless, not everything will change overnight. Waka Kotahi is still part of our legal name. Full guidance around use of our name and logo will go via OnRamp as soon as we get the final green light – this will give you more to go on.

She noted a session around little p and big P policy for next year too – one to pick up further with Out of scope and get into our schedule (will need to draw out a bit more what this looks like and what we link it in with)

Earlier this week, you received the attached letter from s 9(2)(a) Ngai Te Rangi Iwi Trust, which is "a demand for a response from you..." about our "change of name from Waka Kotahi". We think it would be best to provide a response from you, which means sending a response today. The Trust has filed a Waitangi Tribunal claim against the new Government alleging breaches of Te Tiriti o Waitangi and the "undermining" of te reo Māori.

We have prepared a draft response for your approval (attached in case the link doesn't work). It has been informed by advice from Ministerial Services and Legal. Chris B has endorsed.
