Hi [redacted]

I need your expert knowledge ☺

We are currently working on a tender to supply Mini-DRFD to [redacted]. Under their Export Control requirements we are required to be registered with the Directorate of Defence Trade Controls. They mention ITAR but none of our MDRFD products have parts that come under ITAR regulations. Is this registration required just for ITAR products? [redacted] and I have never come across this. Is this something new?

I have included a link below that explains the Code of Regulation (CFR) 122.

I understand that an export licence will be required. In regards to the special classification is there any other requirements in addition to the licence?

Hi s9(2)(a), s9(2)(g)(ii)

I have a curly one for you ☺

We are expecting a Purchase Order from s9(2)(b)(ii) and one of the items requested has the following Dangerous Cargo classification:

Detonator assemblies, non-electric. UN0500, classification 1.4S

This item will be coming from a manufacturer in the UK to s9(2)(b)(ii) who are licenced to receive and store this item. So it will not be coming to MASZ NZ at all. The remaining items under the order (Mini-DRFD) will be sent up to s9(2)(b)(ii) where they will then be dispatched direct to s9(2)(b)(ii)

Do you foresee any issues with this. And are there any special requirements that are needed for this order to be exported from NZ?

Best Regards

Hi s9(2)(a)

Thanks for your patience with this one. After consultation here and with our Post in s9(2)(b)(ii) can advise approval in principle for export of Mini-DRFD (1+5) Systems for the s9(2)(b)(ii) Forces. We would of course need to re-assess the situation at the time of any formal application if there were significant new factors, but as it stands at this point in time there is no reason not to approve the export.

Cheers

Hi s9(2)(a)

The equipment is to be used by soldiers from Special Forces for training and operational purposes across combat demolitions and land warfare activities, such tasks are performed across s9(2)(b)(ii) form part. The equipment will not be used for EOD purposes in any way so I'm not sure where this came from. Of course the EUC will provide further user confirmatory information too.

Hope this clarifies, if you need more information, just ask.
